

Improving the world. One device at a time.

The human side of hardware extends not just to people but the environment too.

ComputerCare in the community.

As a company, we strive to make a difference in the communities where we live and work. Contributing our resources to nonprofit organizations in underserved communities is a high priority here at ComputerCare. At the heart of it all is our commitment to embracing one of our company values: We instead of me. Because we know it's our responsibility to do more.

A commitment to climate.

Protecting and ensuring a healthy future for our climate is a high priority here at ComputerCare. At the heart of it all is our commitment to embracing one of our company values: We instead of Me. As a company, we strive to help create a clean and healthy environment for the future generations to come.

Real-time efforts.

But how does offsetting our emissions look in numbers? Our partnership with Cnaught breaks down how our climate impact stacks up in terms of new trees planted, transportation emissions and even home energy consumption, giving our customers a look into how our efforts compare.

Interested in learning more?

Head on over to <https://impact.cnaught.com/computercare> to see our total carbon offsets to date and the climate impact equivalents.

